Neal Signature Homes

The Luxury Of Living Well

With a legacy spanning more than half a century, Neal Signature Homes is a name synonymous with luxury in the Florida landscape. Today, as the largest home builder in the state's southwest region, this highly respected company offers what they call "The Gold Standard" — a commitment to high-quality craftsmanship nurtured through valued partnerships with industry leaders like PGT.

"We want to build a consistent, good product for our customer," says Pat Neal, chairman of Neal Signature Homes. "I want to deal with a window product that I can ensure stands up in hurricane winds as well as the everyday sunshine we have here in Florida."

"A big wish for Florida home buyers is to have 'a solid enclosure.' Of course windows are the most important part of that," says Neal, adding that PGT WinGuard impact windows come standard in many of their models and are an option in others.

Neal Signature Homes' flagship Aria community, an Italian-inspired enclave in Venice, Florida, is a prime example of what they offer to homeowners. This prestigious, gated environment sits on 152 acres and features tree-lined streets and resort-style amenities, including a clubhouse, fitness center, pool, spa and a bevy of tranquil gathering spaces.

According to Neal, one of the biggest problems in the homebuilding industry is unexpected delays due to unavailable materials. Given that impact windows come standard in Neal Homes built in Fort Myers and Naples, any lack of availability in quality windows would jeopardize hundreds of projects. That's why Neal Homes partnered with PGT Windows and Doors — because they can rely on our service.

The Aria models, like Positano and Ravenna, don't just take their names from Italian locales, they also feature Italianesque architecture, from archway entryways and open courtyards to a marble-clad gourmet kitchen. But perhaps the most beautiful feature of these models is their impressive views.

“Every home we build has a through view. PGT picture windows play a big role in that,” says Neal. In the Aria models, our windows provide gorgeous natural light throughout the home while our sliding glass doors offer a stunning exit onto a lovely outdoor lanai and can even be added to the master bedroom for easy access to an additional optional extended covered lanai. PGT products also create attractive focal points to the homes’ facades, adding to the curb appeal and providing a perfect welcome to homeowners and their guests.

“Having a PGT window shows the quality of the homes I build,” says Neal. PGT is proud to be a partner, bringing even more beauty to these exceptional model homes.
